“ Danny. Man I don't even know where to start. We've shared so many memories growing up. We been through some fun times and rough times. But one memory that I'll never forget is when we went camping you and some other folks had went on the other side of the cove to do some night fishing and you started singing Shania Twain, I feel like a woman. Your voice echoed across that lake at night like you was on stage at a concert. About 30 people on the other side gave you a standing ovation, whistling and all. You were so embarrassed when you came back. It was just recently I had brought it back up. And we laughed our asses off about it. Brother it's time to rest easy now. Love ya
