“ In 2006, the women members of McDonough Road Baptist Church in Fayetteville decided to publish a cookbook of recipes from church members and friends. The purpose of the cookbook was not only to share recipes, but to raise money for the church building fund. I was fortunate to be chair person for the committee that collected the recipes and got the book published.

One of the first people I asked to serve on the committee was Dot Miller, and she readily accepted. She was 82 years old and not only the oldest Cookbook Crew member, but the most energetic!

One day when we were working together at a group of tables, a piece of paper fell under a table. Before anyone else could reach under the table, Mrs. Dot quickly leaned down under the table and retrieved the paper! That was a true example of Dot's energy, enthusiasm, and dedication to get any job done. The end result of the committee's work was a book with 1000 recipes, the sales from which added $10,000 to the building fund. Mrs. Dot was with the entire project every step of the way.

Dot was a delightful lady, and one who always spoke her mind, but who also showed sincere love and caring for others. We had a lot of fun talking and sharing stories together during the years my husband and I were members at McDonough Road Baptist Church. She will always hold a very special place in our hearts and memories.
