“ Thinking of you today. I went to visit you last weekend. I have so many memories. I’m never ever gonna forget you. I’ll forever love you. I know you loved me more than anything and the older I get I realize it all but Jesus called you. I love you Jim I wish I could hold you one more time .. I still listen to our 2 songs I see us jumping up and down in your living room as dale jr. rolls around last lap across finish line. Ohhh lord I could go on forever. I’m sad without you. I love you always baby. People said in 6 months I’d forget you. LOL. They didn’t know how deep we loved each other. Always your sweet baby I love you. 🥹

“ When I was about 4 years old, our Scott family was at Minnie’s picnicking. Some of us kids went into that field past the branch... where cattle were. We had to crawl under/over a barbwire fence. As we were leaving, I was behind the others, and needed help to get out of the pasture. It was Jim on the other side who told me there was a bull in the pasture and it stabbed anything “red”. I had on a red shirt. He wouldn’t hold the fence up for me. I knew I was going to die. I was crying and screaming for my daddy. He finally held up the fence, laughing.

“ It’s sad when someone’s loved one passes and leaves so early in life. I only knew Jimmy a few years but saw a lot of sides to his life. The one thing I saw in Jimmy was his love for his daughter. Jim never showed much emotion for things in his life. But he did show a lot of emotions. I hope and pray you are at peace now Jim. God bless you.
