“ Austin was a kind-hearted man who always made others before himself. I met him on the Internet for the first time in September 2013. The first thing he told me was: God youre so beautiful, Will you marry me?

He smiled with his whole face, even though the time was 3 am there in Georgia United States and 8 in the evening here in Sweden. We talked a long time, several hours. I could hear Austin say to his brother: Hey Chris Im talking to this Beautiful Swedish girl, in Seriously Love her accent!

After we talked for days on end, he tried enough to get me on the case, which he managed to do until I knew it would not work as a relationship so I had to be honest with him. But he did not take it hard, he just said: It does not matter, Im still gonna meet you some day!

In the summer of 2014, two days before my birthday, he called me on Skype and there were two other guys, Austin and Griffin. They were all so happy and through him I got to know two amazing friends, and I took up contact with Austin again. I could tell him everything, he knew my darkest secrets and if I had problems with friends or guys he gave me good advice and always said: God loves you, turn to him. I will pray for you.

He used to send snapchats to me every day and say: I hope youll have a good day Johanna.

He was a great servant of God, he thought it was important for me not to turn away from my faith. He encouraged and asked me many times, he was a great friend. One of my best friends, and I will miss him so. Hes in a better place now, in the Lord. I love you Austin.

Im having a concert in February and Im going to dedicate a song to

“ My heart is breaking for you all. Austin was such a precious young man. From the first time I met him, he let his light shine for Christ. Austin was so sweet and the most polite young man. He will be missed so much. I am praying that God will be your strength and comfort in the days ahead. May He provide the peace in each heart, knowing He is in control. Please know that others care and love you. May God bless each heart. Faithfully praying.
