“ James Morrow is my father. He was strict on us growing up and at times i thought he didn't love me. But as I got older I realized he Was strict because he did love us very much. He taught us ethics and morals and how important respect, honesty, responsibility, loyalty, family and love are. He was always there when we needed him. If he ever said no to us it was to teach us to have confidence in ourselves and make us stronger and he would never let us fall. He never judged me, and he was never ashamed of me even when I made mistakes and bad decisions. He did not use affection to show us he loved us. We learned how much he loved us through the lessons we learned from him , the knowledge he gave us, and no matter what he never gave up on us, and as we matured we realized the love was always there. He was so much more than a father he was a dad and We will never forget the lessons he taught us, cherish the Time we had with him and always be thankful he was a part of our lives. I love you dad, always.

“ Our thoughts and prayers go out to James' family at this time. We only knew him briefly through Ruby, his sister in law, but she always spoke so sweetly of him and how kind he was and how much he loved to be outside working in his garden. May he now find peace with God.
