“ I have amazing memories of him when I was a child. I pretty much lived at his house for years. The one memory that stands out the most to me is the first time I ever saw someone eat crawfish. The whole family is huge seafood lovers. As a child I thought they were disgusting. Haha! As I watched Andy rip the head off of a crawfish and suck the juice out of its head my face must've shown what I was feeling because he laughed so hard at me which then made the entire table start laughing really hard. I have amazing memories of sitting around that table and laughing with him and Pam and Ellen and Julia. Even now just thinking about it brings joy to my heart. He will be missed!

“ Andy Marett was an honest, hardworking, kindhearted man, who loved the three ladies in his life more than words could ever convey. I had the pleasure of knowing Andy for over three decades. He will be missed.

“ Andy Was my go to guy!!! He always knew the answer to my questions no matter how weird the questions were. He was always willing to lend a hand and enjoyed many laughs at my expense. I will miss you!
