

Linda Elwanda Jones

January 5, 1948 - July 29, 2024

On Monday July 29th right before the stroke of midnight, as the storm passed and the winds died down, Linda Elwanda Jones finished the last chapter of her story peacefully at Heritage Hospice in Marietta, GA at the age of 76. Linda was born on January 5th, 1948, to her parents Elwanda and Brad Bagley who raised her in the backseat of a sedan, and as a first-hand witness to many a late night dance party, dryly delivered joke, side-eye and devilish grin that was their union.

In life Linda was an artist, writer, educator, role model, world traveler, business owner, mother, and friend, but above all else she was fiercely independent. This independence was impossible to ignore, and was imbued in everything she did or created. It was also this strength that sustained her, defined her, and shaped the world around her, and has now been passed to those she leaves behind.

She is survived by her loving daughter April Grogan and her husband Jason, her two granddaughters Parker and Morgan Hughes, her son Sam Jones and his wife Nicolette, her cousins Phil and Cindy Sims who were much like siblings, a lengthy list of cousins far and wide, her remarkably loyal Yorkshire terrier Prince, her favorite stray cat Pharell, and the myriad of friends she has made throughout the years.

In lieu of flowers please make a contribution to Amanda's Hope, an organization dedicated to providing scholarships to those who are impacted by cancer, including bone marrow failure diseases.
