I have fond memories of summers and spring break weeks spent with Connie and Kim during the times they visited their father, Mack, in Tyrone, Georgia. We had some good, simple, pure, and country fun. Mack welcomed my sister Shelby and me into his home, and we shared meals together. In their later golden years, Mack and my Dad reconnected and rode motorcycles together through the mountains. He was a good friend, and I'm grateful he and his family are a part of my life. May your precious father rest in peace, Connie. Much love and prayers to you.
