“ I remember one day I was working on 3rd floor and Bob was on the shower list for that day so I went into his apartment and I asked him was he ready for his shower and he looked at me and said I take a shower by myself so I said okay I'll just shower you today so he told me to come closer he held my hand and gave me a kiss on the cheek and said okay nevertheless when I was done with his shower I'm assuming the next day or something he told his daughter that someone had scrubbed him down all over and I thought oh he's talking about me I laughed so hard... He's such a lovable person...

“ Bob Smith, lovingly known as “Papa” to me as a former close neighbor, was a joy to know. We'd chat and he would recount wonderful memories of days gone by. He was a highly intelligent and well-spoken man. He and his daughter Robin were best buddies. Their relationship was so sweet and loving. RIP Sweet “Papa”. Save a place for me to visit with you in your heavenly mansion. Glo Tinsley Bohannon
