“ My dear sweetheart, you are the love of my life. You are my very best friend. I miss you terribly. I promised you that I would be okay and I will because Jesus is going to care for me and help me through each day. He knows the hole I have in my heart. I am so thankful that God brought us together again. You were the first boy I ever kissed and I will always remember that day in our first grade class sitting side by side with our heads down on our desk while Miss White was out of our classroom. It was after lunch and you were crying because you had a stomach ache and wanted your mom. I got up out of my seat and kissed you on top of your head to make you feel better when Mrs. Estes caught me and made me cry too. Miss White returned and made everything okay. I have so many wonderful precious memories that you created with me from all our travels to sitting on the porch. I just wish I could have had you longer. I will love you always and when Jesus is ready for me to come home I will see your beautiful smile again. Thank you for loving my children and grandchildren. You will always be our Porter. I love you. 🥰
