“ I met Sam around 1992 When we were both members of Peachtree city running club. We became pretty good friends both socially and when we were competing against each other in the many, many races we ran together.

I feel so sad for you Jan, Sam was a good man.

I bet he is running a race right now, and encouraging others to keep on going.

“ We met in 1981. A family get together with a line of tables full of food out on your and Jan's back driveway. You were standing at the kitchen door facing the back porch area holding a phone book. I entered and you handed me the phone book and asked that I look up a vendor who now escapes me who the vendor was. Fast forward 42 years later, every time I visited and pulled around the back, you were always standing at the kitchen door looking out waiting on me, and when I left, waving each time. If I arrived early, I was met with you cooking or helping with breakfast, and if later, setting and removing the table settings. That kitchen door area is my biggest memory. Something so simple yet forever in my memories. I will miss you Sam. Your daughter-in-law, Diane.

“ I remember the first time I met you back in the 70's. You were dating my aunt Jan and I had to make sure you were worthy. Sam, you were more than worthy and I so enjoyed every time we managed to be in the same place, which was not often enough. R.I.P. Uncle Sam. You will be missed.
